Version .Q: Is the sequence of

$$1, 2/3, 4/9, 8/27, 16/81, 32/243, \dots$ a convergent sequence? I think that the answer of this question is no, but I'm not sure. I need some help. The question is : Is the sequence of $$1, 2/3, 4/9, 8/27, 16/81, 32/243, 64/729, 128/2187, 256/6561, \dots$ convergent? Thank you. A: Actually, if you want it to be convergent, you have to fill the missing terms (like, to be exactly) $$ $ 2, 4/3, 8/9, 16/27, 16/9, 32/27, 32/9, 64/27, 64/9, 128/27, 128/9, 256/27, 256/9, 512/27, 512/9$ $$ $$ and $$ $ 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1$ $$ $$ The cold front that moved through the Twin Cities earlier this week brought with it a widespread frost across the region. The National Weather Service has issued a number of frost warnings and frost watches in the Twin Cities and neighboring areas, including in Marshall and Scott counties. The overnight and morning frost and foginess will be strongest in the Twin Cities metro area and in southern areas of Minneapolis and St. Paul. Temperatures are expected to plunge on Wednesday night into the 20s and teens. “There will be a period of freezing fog and possibly freezing rain as well that will last through the night,” said Brett Russo, a meteorologist with the National Weather Service. “Everything is going to be really slick.” The National Weather Service says early Wednesday that the ice will “spread southward and westward into the Twin Cities Metro area.” Russo said Wednesday morning that everyone should be ready to deal with slick roads. “You have to be ready for the possibility of freezing rain and then that will turn to rain

Basic version of Dandelion - Wishes brought to you.[Effect of central alpha- and beta-blockade on the phase response of the human circadian pacemaker]. The effect of central alpha- and beta-blockade by the transmitter blockers phentolamine (PHT) and naloxone (NAL) on circadian rhythm of peripheral temperature in 14 healthy volunteers was examined. PHT as an alpha-blocker and NAL as a beta-blocker, in low doses (PHT 1.0 mg, NAL 1.0 mg), affect circadian temperature rhythms by causing phase advance of circadian temperature rhythms. The results obtained are discussed in the view of the some works on the effect of electrostimulation of the rat intergeniculate leaflet (IGL) on the phase of circadian temperature rhythms. The differential effect of alpha-blockade and beta-blockade on the pacemaker is discussed. Prank caller video latest in string of incidents at Scottish school Published duration 30 November 2018 image copyright Google image caption This photo shows a young student holding a schoolbag which has been taped to a wall in a class at St Aidan's Primary School, Bute Street A teacher at a primary school in Bute Street, Aberdeen, has posted a warning on Twitter after a "prank" video was filmed on a mobile phone inside a class. In the video, a young boy can be heard saying "when I leave this is what's going to happen". The teacher said: "Someone has recorded a prank video on their phone while taking a class - threatening to hurt or eat a fellow class member. "We are working together with Scottish Police and Child Protection to bring those responsible for this serious offence to justice." 'Is it a joke?' The teacher claims a member of the public reported the video which was filmed on 30 September in a primary school classroom. It shows a young boy saying "when I leave this is what's going to happen". During the video a number of other students can be heard laughing and jeering at the boy. The teacher has refused to release any details about the video to the media because of the age of the pupils involved, but said a number of incidents involving mobile phone use have been
