Jazzpunk is a two-player hack 'n' slash co-operative adventure where you get to work together to solve puzzles, outwit mafiosi, and play '80s songs that were actually composed in the '70s. ("Neon Trees"!) Awake. "It's Christmas morning." After crashing on top of the world you awaken in a station underneath the great Hudson River. Unfortunately, you're not the only one alive. A shadow lurks in the dark. Chandler and Bradley the protagonist of Jazzpunk is a pair of runners who are trying to escape a train that accidentally smashed its way through the top of the world. As they crash on top of the world, the duo witnesses a strange event. The lights from the train disappear and moments later the world begins to spin, a dreamy sense of vertigo sets in and the train that smashed through the world is now stuck into the ground. What happened? Why is this happening? How will they escape? What? No one told you? You survived after all! How do you get up? You pull yourself up. But how? There are also two "dumb" police officers at the train station. They believe that it's all just a dream. As a result they don't do very much to help. "This is happening to you," they say. "It's a dream." A few minutes later the world begins to spin and the lights from the train disappear. At that moment the two "dumb" policemen become allies. At the very least, they won't actively fight you. Now, the two "dumb" policemen are friends, but they seem to be on the "good guy" side of the super-fantastic super-power struggle going on between two opposing "super powers". In a way the train is stuck under the river because one of the two super powers is trying to force the city of New York to go back to the Stone Age and cutting power to the whole city. "Try harder," they tell the city. "We've not cut the power yet." You will find out more about the powers later. That little explanation, a neon. A genius creation and unmissable piece of comedy. The Game Jazzpunk is based on the incredible work of Tim Delaney of the Tim and Eric Awesome Show, Great Job! About The Writer: It's Tim, your NERD and strange. He's a bit of a misfit, but overall a solid person (in the most nerdy sense of the word). Tim lives in England with his girlfriend, Anya, and their cat, Hingis. Tim went to university and studied the History of Art and Communication, and has an Amazon wishlist that's epic. He spends his free time playing games and watching anime. Tim currently lives in Munich as an intern, sharing a flat with 36 other people. Thanks for your support and everything else! And thanks to the awesome team at Overkill, BLOODY LUCIE, our amazing artist Salvatore Ficchi, a man that's easy to hate and love, producer Lisbeth Salander and most of all to my sister for editing and sleeping. Oblivious to everything but his game, Jazzpunk is ready to escape with Dr. Nerdlove.8/10 PLAYGAnti-game: A brief, occasionally comic but ultimately disappointing investigation into the effects of video game genres.3/5 AmazonHard to describe, but worth the effort.5/5 AnindoGamesIt's extremely easy to laugh while playing this game.9/10 IGNMaybe one day.6/10 Eurogamer Jazzpunk is a Japanese/U.S. co-production created by Square Enix and Iguana Entertainment, who also created the Square Enix produced, Iguana Entertainment published, Square Enix published (and currently Square Enix owned) PS4 / PS Vita sci-fi rail shooter, Enslaved: Odyssey to the West. It's sole localization of choice, which still requires a Japanese PS4 or Vita copy of the game to use this story mode, which tells the story of a young man's quest to prevent the destruction of all life on the planet by the cyber-octopus Agoraphobic. If you're thinking "ew gross, a post-apocalyptic story about a video game," that's about the level of exposure I have to Jazzpunk, and where I was going with this. So, if you, too, haven't played Enslaved: Odyssey to the West, or haven't played it that well to know what to expect, I can tell you that Jazzpunk is an absolute delight, delivered via an absurdist visual style, a consistent and sublimely persistent soundtrack, and an engaging interactive story which can be finished in about three hours. Jazzpunk tells the story of Dr. Nerdlove, an amoral mad scientist who, long before he became the world renowned, game-obsessed "Dr. Nerdlove," lead an apocalyptic-fearing life. While in college, he would leave his dorm room and hide in the rafters of a bar, as far from his fellow students as he could get. It was only after being told he had no power to change this sad reality that Nerdlove, through "soulful engagement," saved the Earth, ascended to godhood, and ascended to heaven. Eventually, he encountered his wife Mindy, of whom he's now the proud step-father, and his brother Clyde, who the Doctor more than usually loves. Jazzpunk is about the Doctor's struggle to prevent the end of the world as we know it, but it's also

Sneak Peek Jazzpunk: Director's Cut holds an exclusive Preview at the Hollywood Film Festival on October 5th. Star Ace Frehley showcases his passion for rock and roll, while a pixelated Punkish cut featuring live action and animated visuals turns it into an unusual visual extravaganza. Here is the trailer by director and Oscar-winning producer Thomas Sternberg. ... HipHop What is HipHop? Hip Hop is a term for the culture that originated in the Bronx/Manhattan area in New York City during the 1970s and 1980s. It is a form of Rap music and lyric-writing with a hard beat. It is a culture that combines elements of Jazz, Funk, Soul, and Rock and Roll. Jazzpunk doesn't put a finger on it and lets you discover it for yourself.Q: Rank in cakePHP and sorting I have a dynamic list that I'm outputting from a model, here is an example of the count array I'm returning: Array ([0] => Array ([Course_id] => 164) [1] => Array ([Course_id] => 12) [2] => Array ([Course_id] => 191) [3] => Array ([Course_id] => 12) [4] => Array ([Course_id] => 191) ...) ...and it could be in any order. I currently output this in my view like so:

I'm pretty sure there's a way I could do this with a couple of functions, so I'm not just dumping everything in there. I just wouldnt know what to use. How would I go about building a function to sort this array by course_id in order? EDIT: So I need to get
