The Port Authority announced the contract Friday. (Published Friday, July 29, 2012) Some New York City residents have gotten to attend Yankees and Mets games, see performances by top Broadway shows and New Jersey residents can go shopping in a big-city mall. Now they can go swimming in the Hudson River as well. The Port Authority of New York and New Jersey announced a $13.9 million contract Friday to ferry millions of gallons of crude oil across the Hudson River to a terminal in Newark. The Port Authority said it was entering the contract to protect the region's residents and first responders in the event of a spill. The oil would come from the huge Murphy Oil Rig 76, which sank in the Gulf of Mexico in April. "It's a win-win," said Port Authority Chairman David Samson, who signed the contract. "It 6d1f23a050
